MVch to insert or many words to vse, In praying of a worke so rudely pend,
 Would seem but a means my faults to excuse To a snarling Carper, or a louing friend:
 But such as it is I here kindly do offer,
 Not daring compare it with him that seems best, Hoping that the wise will accept my proffer,
 I care not a fig for any of the rest:
 But you my good friends of the better spirit, Doe you this my labour with my loue inherit.

Burton. 1614.

A Prognostication, for the yeere of our Lord God, 1614. being the second from the Leape yeere : wherein is contayned the generall state of the foure Quarters of the yeere.

With the Quarterly disposition of the weather, in each quarter of the Yeere throughout the years.

Made according to arte, by Gregory Burton of Wymondham in the County of Nortolke, Practitioner in Physicke, and Student in Astronomy.

L O N D O N

Printed for the Company of the Stationers.

A briefe description of the state and quality of the foure Quarters of this yeere : and first of Winter.

Vinter began the 11. day of December last past, past two of the clocke in the afternoone, at which time the worlds bright shining Starre appeared furthest deflected from our Zeneth, making the daies shortest, and the nights longest, in this our Northerly part of the world. This part of the yeere, by naturall inclination, is of quality cold and moyst, resembling old age.
I doe coniecture, it will be a sharpe and blustring winter, with more frost then snow &c.

The sicknesses likely to pursue vs this Quarter, are Catharres, Coughs, Hoarsenes in the throate, Palsies, Lookeines in the ernes, Ache, and Stiffnes in the knees, Dis-senteries, Quotidians, with other strange Agues, &c.

A Prediction of the Spring.

The Spring beginneth with vs the 10. of March, at 2. and more then halfe an houre in the afternoone, at which time the Sunne riseth at 6. and setteth at 6. making the dayes and nights of an equall length in all all places. This Quarter, by naturall inclination, should be hot and moist, resembling the age and youth of man: but concerning the temperature of the weather, I doe guess, it will be cold and dry, with some blustering winds in the fore-part of the same, &c.

¶ The diseases of the body like'y to insue this Spring, will be much pained in the head, with Dizziness in the same, Humaticke distillations to the stomacke and Lungs, causing Coughs, & Plurisies, with other diseases.

A prediction of the Summer.

Summer, the third part of the yere, will stake his beginning the 11. day of June about 6. and 50. minutes in the afternoone, at which time the worlds bright shining eye will be nearest vnto vs in our Zeneth, making the daies at the longest, and the nights at y shortest in our Hemisphere. This Quarter, by his proper nature, is hot and dry, resembling fire, and the middle age of man, and in my iudgement, is likely to abound with heate and drynesse, as also windy and thunder towards the latter end of the same.

¶ The diseases likely to possesse the habite of mans body this Quarter, are, Paynes in the head, Idlenesse of the brayne, Red and watry

A Prognostication.

watry eyes, Payne in the stomacke, Tertians, and hot Feauers of Strange kinds, with other diseases, caused by corruption of the blood.

A prediction of Autumne.

Autumne or Haruest, the fourth part of the yere, taketh his beginning the 13. day of September, at 9. and 10. minutes in the forenone, the Sunne then entring into the first minute of Libra, making the dayes and nights of equall length to all nations. The first part of this Quarter is likely to proue cold and dry, the rest moze wet, with lowde winds.

The griefes this Quarter most likely to incounter vs. wil be Swimming in the head, Coughs, Cramps, Collicks, Stiffenelle in the limmes, with Quartanes and other Strange Agues, &c.

A prediction of the weather, for euery quarter of the Moone, in each moneth throughout the yere: the coniunction of the Moone with the Planets: the aspects of the Planets betweene themselves with necessary Abstracts appertayning to each moneth: as also what faces the Planets are in, in each signe in euery moneth,

A Prognostication.

A few caueats to the courteous Reader, fit for all men to know, and being knowne, to thinke vpon.

Kinde Reader, in my last yeres worke, and first booke by me writtten, touching that ancient and laudable science of Astronomy. I did take vpon me, though the most vnable of many, yet for the benefite and good of the Kingdome & Countrey wherein I liue, to lay open the idleness & ignorance of many lewde vndeutred persons, which to dayly leane their Callings & Trades, wherein they haue bin trayned vp, and do take vpon them the practice of Physi-cick and Chyrurgery, to the great hurt of health, and danger of life to many: but here I doe not alone condemne those idle ignorant wandring wantwits before spoken of, but also I complaine me of the ignorance and want of vnderstanding of the common people, which doe as it were, thinne be adlonge to their owne destruction, cleane contrary to Gods appoyntment, who hath commanded vs in the yme of sickness, first to seeke vnto him, and next vnto the Physicion, as to the ordinarie meanes which he hath appoynted, & not to the Carpenter, Comer, Cobbler, Colyer, or such like, at whose hands wee are rather to looke for hurt then help. Ecclesiasticus sayth, Honour the Physicion, but not the Carpenter, Cobbler, or such other: yet notwithstanding every man in his seuerall profession is worthy of due praise & commendation, accordingly as his defects shall be therein. And here let me acquaynt the with the knowledge and skill of most of these idle ignorant ill conditioned Emperickes, which are mere shadowes without substance, that doe not de-ceewe the of thy money onely, but becaue the of thy health, and oft tymes of thy life also. (which in my opinion, is farre to be respected aboue coyne of what kinde soeuer) for this is certaine in my owne knowledge. (besides the report of others made vnto me) that most of these before spoken of, haue but one drinke or horch-porch, which they giue in generall to all those that make vse of them, haue vnequall in age, haue different in complection or constitution, or what seuerall giuers of sicknesses soeuer they haue therfore this I leane leave to the judgement of every understanding man, w<sup>h</sup>at trust of helpe, or hope of health there is to be expected at the hands of the aforesaid blinde and unskilfull (supposed Physicians) though skilfull makes it selfe, as also, how hard a matter it is for such ignoble necessicall persons, to attaine unto the least measure of knowledge in naturall philosophy, without the which it is not possible for any man, (though never so learned) to attaine unto the true knowledge and methodicall practice of Physicke: for, Vbi definit Philosophus, ibi incipit medicus. Likewise, Methodus est vita ac spiritus scientiarum, &c.

And here, gentle Reader, without offence, and for thy owne good, let mee aske thee two or three questions (and those are these.) If thou hast a sute of apparell to make, wilt thou go to the Comer? or a paire of shoes to make, to a Carpenter? or a house to build, to a Cobbler? I dare say no, lest thy apparell be spoyle, thy shoes ill cut, and thy house ill built: yet notwithstanding, the health of thy body, the spoyle of thy limmes, nay, and the hazarding of thy life, thou wilt not vnderstand to venture, eyther one or all of these, in the hands of the aforesaid Carpenter, Cobbler, Comer, or such like, which, for thy money, will overthrowe thy health, spoyle thy body & endanger thy life (what wouldst thou haue more?) a word to the wise is sufficient. Thus I, though the least, yet in the greatnes of my loue, (to my friends and countrymen) haue thought good, to second my first yeres worke with some few reasons, to dissuade both men & women, from putting their liues into the hands of these the aforesaid, witlesse, wandring, idle, ignorant, erring Emperickes. Miserum est, cum malus periculum a medico, quam a morbo impendat: It is a miserable thing, when greater perill hangeth ouer the patient from the Physician, then from the disease. And thus, till some further occasion shall incite me to undertake some better worke, I will leave my selfe to the censure of the wise, and my becke to them that will make vse of it. and bid thee heartily farewell.

Thine to the vtmost of his best iudgements, G. B.
